

Steven Corley Randel The Good Bones Architect

7 Reasons To Hire Steven Randel

1. Want a happy life? Hire a happy guy!

Steve spent a three-decade career perusing passionate work reaching a place of contentment and gratification that too many lose while going about their journey. Find out how Steve coped with stress, overcame obstacles, and continued his quest, which allows him to deliver a story of courage and inspiration.

2. Discover a balance between dreams and the real world, and learn to distinguish attainable goals from ones that won't pay the bills.

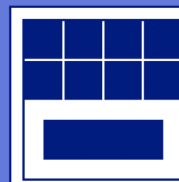

Allow Steve to acknowledge your vision and hear his advice on turning it into reality in a way that deals with actual circumstances that don't defer your aspirations. This concept gives us tools to handle the everyday demands that each of us faces.

3. You need someone with real-world experience, not theory.

Hear from one who has been to the war, won a few battles, lost a few fights and returned to tell the tale. Listen to Steve's experiences with difficult challenges including hard economic conditions, disillusioning expectations, and unexpected situations that define the real world and gain wisdom that only the experienced pro can deliver.

4. You want intriguing content that adjusts your perspective.

Steve delivers a concise message that will resonate with all creative professionals and one that they can apply to their circumstances so that they build professional lives full of financial success as well as happiness.

GOOD BONES ARCHITECT

5. Hire a personable speaker with an authentic background to draw in your audience because it's hard to learn from someone who is distant and hypothetical.

Allow Steve to take you on a marvelous adventure that your audience will appreciate for its honesty and frankness. He will demonstrate how to establish a touchstone that serves as the bedrock to pursue your dreams.

6. You want to hear someone deliver from the heart and soul to have an impact on your attendees.

Steve's long professional career is full of successes as well as failures. Your audience needs to know that their paths can be difficult but Steve will help them learn how to stay focused so that they maintain their happiness through thick and thin.

7. You need someone that helps your audience find joy in the present by teaching them to appreciate the gifted abilities that they already possess.

The big picture is essential, but it's the small stuff that we live moment by moment. Steve can help your audience learn how to enjoy their professional lives on a micro level while staying true to their big goals.

Book Steven Randel to Help You Architect a Business and Life You Love!

Steve@GoodBonesArchitect.com | (619) 786-2890